This festival explores the dialogue between the forces we shape and the forces of life. We sculpt the Force into focused streams of photons, precise acoustic waves, and carefully crafted magnetic fields, and send them into the body to listen for its response. What returns is more than an image; it's a story.

Intrinsic mechanical, metabolic, and electrical forces leave signatures on our probes, subtle whispers in phase, path, or energy that reveal invisible currents of disease long before taking form. We can also write upon the matrix, ablating, remodeling, and restoring tissue with precision. One science, two applications: to understand, and to heal.

We invite you to bring your science, your perspective, and your unique interpretation of this theme. Show us how you shape the Force, and tell us what you have learned from its echoes.
